As Christians, our vocation in life is to proclaim the dignity of every human person and to be at the service of the poor and needy. We have got to seek out ways in which we become a voice for the voiceless because the poor of the world are our brothers and sisters. We must never be content to leave them on the breadline. If we have surplus of anything then we should share. Let us remember that it is in giving that we receive. The poor provide us with an opportunity of opening our hearts and practising charity. Lazarus was the rich man's sole opportunity of shaping his eternal destiny for the better. He was the lifeline to help Dives place himself within the range of God's grace. Dives was not condemned for being rich but rather for his indifference to the poor man's plight. Sins of omission are all too easily overlooked. Lazarus is all around us. Not as an apparition from another world but in the pitiful spectres of humanity who aimlessly walk our city streets, sleep in doorways and beg for money. The fact we cannot fix every situation is not an excuse for doing nothing at all. Every Lazarus at the gate is a challenge to remember where God is ... at the side of the poor.

GLEANINGS FROM THE ELECTION GUIDE AND CATHOLIC SOCIAL TEACHING

Indigenous Issues

Many Canadians see reconciliation with Indigenous peoples, First Nations, Inuit and Métis – as a priority. As a country we can restore positive relationships and move forward together. Voting responsibly, means engaging in dialogue with Indigenous communities on ways to reduce poverty and ensure adequate funding for education, health care, clean water and housing. All levels of government, but especially the federal government, can work to do this. Our Catholic community must advocate where any injustice remains, recognizing the unique history and contributions offered by Indigenous peoples.

Newcomers: Immigrants, Migrants and Refugees

“Biblical revelation urges us to welcome the stranger; it tells us that in doing so we open our doors to God, and that in the faces of others we see the face of Christ himself. Today the context of the economic crisis unfortunately fosters the emergence of attitudes of closure and not of welcome. The only way to a solution is that of solidarity with the migrant, with the foreigner” (Pope Francis). Our vote can help ensure that the government considers their needs so they are less vulnerable.

Health Care: Access for All

Political parties know that voters expect the government to be concerned and proactive about Canadian's well-being. Health and health care are fundamental rights. In addition to caring for our own wellbeing, we must show concern for the most vulnerable people in our communities – especially those experiencing extreme poverty. Access to medication - the need for a comprehensive pharmacies program is an issue as well as full accessibility for people living with developmental or physical disabilities.

There are some copies of the Election Guide available at the back of the Church.

Every election campaign involves issues that we need to address if we hope to build a more just society for everyone. For most of us the issues that are top of mind are those that affect us personally. Because we are one body, one community, issues that affect the most vulnerable are also our issues. It is important to look at all the party platforms and reflect on what kind of society we would like, what kind of social safety nets we need, what is in the common good so that people thrive. When more people thrive we are then all better off individually and as a society.
